When you look into their records you find that those who have succeeded by virtue of their own talents are the ones who did not have their future wealth constantly dangled before their eyes. The late E. H. Harriman had no foolish ideas about the raising of his sons. He always told his friends that he did not want his boys to grow up with the not want his boys to grow up with the consciousness that they would be mill-jonaires. As a matter of fact he has secreely any business richest man in the world. As a matter of fact, he has scarcely any business position whatever. This is not so much due to lack of ability as to lack of interest in commercial matters, and to his desire to help in the perpetuation of his father's vast philanthropies. Young John D. once summed up his business creed when he said: "I'd rather lead a Sunday school than run an office." His cousins, however, will keep the Rockefeller name to the fore in business. Brussels, Nov. 8.—An extraordinary demonstration occurred in the states today as King Albert drove to the palace of the nation to open parliament. A million slips of paper bearing a demend for universal suffrage stormed the royal cortege, and some heavy packages of these were thrown at the king's carriage by a crowd of Socialists. His majesty was not hit.

As the king opened the parliamentary session, violent discussions between the Socialists and Catholics began at once.
